A Most Unsatisfactory Disposition of Diseased Beef.

Rotten Meat. It is a deplorable fact that the powers of the meat inspectors of Omaha, Hickstein and Farr, cannot be enlarged so as to take in the stockyards and village of South Omaha, for it is from these points unquestionably, that nine-tenths of the evils that arise from the sale of diseased meat in this city emanate. As revolting as the crime is and as repulsive as it is to law apiding citizens, the fountain head of the evil cannot be effectively reached until the laws are so changed and amended as to give Omaha officials jurisdiction over the two points named. Owing to the fact that there seems to be an utter lack of law governing the stockyards and the village, so far as the authoritative disposal of crippled and diseased stock is con-cerned, this has become the objective point of shipment for all kinds of stock of this kind along the different lines, and in fact, from Chicago and Kansas City. Here crippled stock is received, and it might be said, too, diseased stock, in not unfrequent cases, which is slaugh-tered and run into the market in deliance of the law, by disreputable parties who speculate in just such commodities, and none other. This is certainly a pretty condition of affairs, and one that calls in stentorian tenes for immediate investigation and remedy at the hands of somebody, it matters not who, just so it is attended to, and at once. A few days since Meat Inspector Hickstein visited South Omaha and condemned 500 pounds of beef in the hands of one John Dow, who was formerly in the rendering house at the stockyards, and who has been suspected of having dealt in unlawful meat before. This 500 pounds of meat was the carcass of a cow badly diseased with the milch fever, and after condemning the same and ordering it hauled away and buried—only an assumption of authority on the part of the officer, actuated by the fearful emergency of the case-he placarded a warning to the effect that citi-Zens should not purchase meat of said John Dow. The inspector labored under the hope that his presumption in ordering the diseased beef to be carted away and incontinently destroyed, might impress the rascally dealer with the idea that his authority was the gen-uine article, and that his orders would be obeyed, but he was disappointed. Another visit there yesterday revealed that Dow had not only kept the meat but had salted it down and was evidently preparing for its disposal through the channels of this or some other market. How do Omaha people like the idea of feasting on this diseased and poisonous beef? Isn't it sufficient, almost, to inaugurate an open revolt against such a shameful condition of things? The of such an opportu-offered the ghouls that possibility nity being offered the would take advantage of it is enough to make the ordinary man wish that for the moment he could take the law in his own hands. It is barbarous and appalling and a shame to any civilized community, and the parties whose business it is the parties whose business it is to look into this matter should not allow the grass to grow under their feet while getting at it. The meat inspectors seem to think there is no power high enough to remedy the matter, and that it must continue on until South Omaha assumes the proportions and the functions of a full-fledged city. They say that they have applied to the county commissioners, and found them impotent and powerless, in fact uninterested; to the city council, to the county and city attorneys, chief of police and so on down to the most insignificant branch of the city's government, with a similar result. No one has the power to interfere in the matter, and none have been found sufficiently awake to the enormity of the offense being practiced, probably daily, against the whole community, to even suggest a means of correcting the same,

let alone to take active steps themselves.

Some of the Latest Moves Made in Improvements.

The board of public works held a meeting yesterday morning at which Messrs. Heimrod and Balcombe were present. The contract for sewering districts 49, 50 and 52 were let to Hugh Murphy and of district 51 to J. O. Corby.

The work of grading Twentieth street from Cuming to Grace was let to G. W. McKinney

OMAHA AND KANSAS CITY.

City Engineer Tillson, in reply to an interview published in a morning paper, in which it was said, by a Kansas City man, that Omaha ought to have more public improvements, otherwise she will make a backward movement, said yesterday to a BEE reporter: "The fact is that no city of its size in the country is making anything near the amount of public im-provements which Omaha is making today. Last year we did more even than Kansas City did in this respect We spent $800,000 in them while Kansas City spent only $600,000. This year the improvements ordered are fifty per cent of all the improvements made in this city since this work began."

It was announced yesterdaythat Charles Woodworth, the curbing stone contrac-tor, had made arrangements with another quarryman in Colorado to aid in furnishing stone enough to supply the present and prospective need of the con-

DAVENPORT STREET PAVING. The BEE sometime ago contained the announcement that there was a misunderstanding as regards the material with which Davenport street was to be paved west of Fifteenth street. As a conse-quence of the misunderstanding the asphaltum men were ordered to stop, be-cause it was claimed that the property owners wanted cedar blocks and not as-phaltum. The authority which compelled the cessation of labor is found in the following letter to

Whereas, an exception has been taken to the letting of the contract for the paving of district SI, the city council has referred the same to the board of public works and city attorney with power to act. You are hereby notined that for the time being you are to suspend javing until the matter can be investigated.

John L. Webstern.

The letter was written some weeks ago. It was given to the chairman of the board of public works. Yesterday that gentle-man received the following letter from the

It is my oninion that, under the complicated circumstances, that you are fully justi-fied in directing the Barber Asphaltum Pav-ing company to proceed with the paving of district St.

In accordance with this opinion, Mr. Balcombe ordered the paying to be re-commenced, and a force of men was im-mediately set to work. In the opinion of some of the property owners on the street, however, this does not settle the matter and the probability that the question of the pay for the work will later be got only four."

> THE COUNTY HOSPITAL The Contract for Building Let to

Ryan & Co. This Morning. After several days work the county commissioners have given the contract for the erection of the county hospital to Ryan & Walsh, of this city, for $120,000 in round figures. They were the lowest bidders, and intend to commence work next week. This they have to do within twenty days or forfeit their contract, and they must complete the building before October 1, 1888, or pay $100 per day for every day over that time they take in finishing their work. Besides Messrs. Ryan & Co, have to give a bond of $30,000, and 10 per cent of the contract price will be retained by the commissioners until the structure is finally ac-cepted. The work will be superintended by a competent builder to be by a competent builder to be appointed by the commissioners, and the latter are now having a regular "cast iron" agreement drawn up so that the county will be protected every way and the contractors held strictly to their agreement. There were seven bids altogether, two of which came late and were not considered. Messrs. Brennan & Co. were the next low est to Ryan & Co., their bid being $123-000. Some changes were made in the original plans, the superintendent's building, the chapels, and lying in ward being left out because these buildings were not considered necessary at present, and probably for a further reason to bring the contract amount nearer that allowed to be expended for the building.

RAILROAD NOTES. President Adams' Visit-Trains Delayed-A Spotter on Deck. Charles Francis Adams, president of the Union Pacific, was in consultation with Vice-President Potter and other oflicials of the road yesterday morning. [It is rumored that several important changes will be made, but those high in authority are very silent even if they know anything about the matter. Mr. Adams leaves for the east to-night.

Train No. 2, which should have arrived here at 7:30 a.m., did not pull into the depot until 1:35 p. m. The delay was caused by the Central Pacific train failing to connect. It was a heavy train and among the cars were live containing fruit and one filled with Chinamen bound for Massachusetts. The Wabash was eight hours late. The cause is said to be an accident on the southern end of the

On account of the late arrival of No. 2 a corps of thirty-five sweepers, cleaners, oilers, etc., from the shops under Assistant Foreman Amos Smith, went across the river to clean the train there. It will not be taken to the shops as usual, but will remain at the transfer until the 8:20 goes out to-night. It is understood that this will be a regular rule in a day or two. No trains will be brought back to the shops for cleaning after arrival at the transfer, but that work will be performed

The boys at the depot are a little interested in a stranger who has been sneak-ing around there for two or three weeks. has proved to be a "spotter seeking to find out where reduction can be made on the force, what each man is doing, etc. This man was at first taken or a masher, but his get-up was not of hat immaculate style that would justify such an opinion. His unboiled shirt had been too long absent from the laundry, and his frayed straw hat had been exposed to the suns and storms of too many seasons. Then his fluffy face was too carmine in color for a real dude and his stature too squatty. Others thought he might have been secured as an ornament for the new iron drop gates at the crossing when they are put in use. At any rate he is a decided object of interest in the depot. The attention of the city council, as the proper body to right this matter, is respectively called thereto. The employes look at him occasionally to see if he is "all there," but further than this they heed him not being con-scious that they attend to their duties and have to work hard to do so.

> That Railroad Consolidation. The flaming column announcement in a morning paper that the Motor railroad and the Metropolitan cable line were to consolidate is ridiculous on its face. When Dr. Mercer, president of the former road, was approached by a BEE representative he laughed heartily and said it was the first he had heard of any consolidation. The Motor was able to take care of itself, and was pushing its work right along, and in a very short time would have one of the finest electric motors in use here for the road.

Bates Gets His Money.

William Bates, the man who was nauled into the police station on Friday last in a beastly state of intoxication and with a broken arm, was released yesterday morning. He alleged, when sobered up, that he had been robbed of $140, or that he had given it to some one to keep of him, and yesterday the chief recovered $100 he had left with the proprietor of the Eagle house saloon on Fourteenth, between Howard and Harney streets, where he had left it for safe keeping while engaged in the job of painting he had on hand. The probabilities are that this was all the money he had.

Shoes vs. Dry Goods. Sunday the amateur base ball clubs of the Chicago bargain shoe store and the S. P. Morse & Co. dry goods store, played a match game at the Athletic park. The Chicago bargain shoe store line were dressed in nobby new uniforms, furnished by this popular firm. The game was an interesting one, and resulted 14 to 8 in favor of the Chicago bargain shoe store team. The boys say they are ready for a challenge from any amateur nine in the city.

The case of Jennie E. Hull vs. the Continental Life Insurance company, Hartford, Conn., was filed in the United States district court yesterday morning. The matter in dispute in this action exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum of $2,000, and the cause of action is the refusal to pay a life insurance policy. It seems that the life of Dwight G. Hull was insured for $2,500 in the above named was insured for $2,500 in the above named company for the benefit of the plaintiff, then the wife, now the widow, of Hull. The premium on the delivery of the policy was paid, and subsequently semi-annual payments. The premiums which matured upon it up to the death of Dwight G. Hull were also paid. It was provided that the sum insured for should be paid within ninety. sured for should be paid within ninety days after notice and satisfactory death of Hull, which occurred March 3, 1887. Due notice and satisfactory evidence of his death and the plaintiff's just claims pursuant to the terms of the policy, were furnished the company, but for some un-accountable reason they refused to pay the same. Therefore the plaintiff prays judgment in the sum of $2,500, with interest from July 30, 1887, and for the costs of the action.
Deputy United States Marshal Allen left for Holdridge yesterday morning with warrants for two counterfeiters.

DISTRICT. John Nelson has filed a petition for a divorce in the district court from Anna Nelson, on the grounds of desertion and abandonment. Mrs. Nelson comes back at John in a counter-petition in which at John in a counter-petition in which she claims that she is the party deserted and abandoned, that her husband not only failed to support her, but maitreafed her, and finally left her, and that she was compelled to go to Nebraska City in quest of work to sustain her and her infant child. That she did not desert him or any one else, or run away from anybody. Her departure was but a case of absolute necessity, and that her husband knew where she was at the time he published his notice, and that he has misrepresented the condition of things in

Yesterday morning Julius F. Heinerfiled a suit to recover from L. A. Stewart, the oil man, whose financial difficulties were mentioned in Saturday and Sunday's Bee, $2,200.97 for two bills of oil sold to the latter on the 25th of May and June 7. POLICE COURT.

There was a busy session at the police court yesterday morning, no less than for-ty-one cases being disposed of. While this unusual number of offenders filled the court room to suffocation almost, the aulience in the vestibule was the largest of the season, and they stood there and perspired and gasped and gaped as if they were drawing a big salary for it, and that too, when three whiffs of the atmosphere was equal to at least a half pound of limberger cheese. But as long as they enjoyed it the court offered no interfer-

Through his lawyer he stated that he was out driving in the country with his wife and children, and on returning in the and children, and on returning in the evening, at the corner of Tenth and Hickory streets, he was assailed by a gang of boys, who followed his wagon, hooting like a band of Chiricahuis, and pelting him with globules of concentrated cholera in the shape of green apples, and to frighten them off, he leaped from his wagon, and fixed of hour bands of the state of the sta wagon and fired off both barrels of a shotgun he had in the wagon into the air. The court said he might return this afteroon and recite his piece over again. E. E. Taylor, for smashing up a neighbor's furniture, also had his case con-tinued, as did Adam Dole, charged with cutting. He went into the schooner saloon down on Tenth and Jones last night and called for a glass of beer, but before he could drink it he became involved in a fight with a gang of bar-room flies, but knew nothing of the stabbing.

THE TURNERS' PICNIC. A Most Agreeable Day in the Woods.

The picnic of the Omaha turners took place Sunday at Rural park, and was a most pronounced success. Rural park is an elevation about two miles from Plattsmouth. It is on the B. & M. road, a switch from which runs to the base of the bluff. On the summit of the latter there had been erected a permanent dancing pavilion, as also a house in which refreshments will be sold, and which will afford shelter in case of inclement weather. This was decorated with a number of German mottoes It was thronged all day with people who sat and talked and smoked and enjoyed the beautiful view which the great elevation ensurrounding country. It comprehends hill, dale and river in a number of most attractive combinations, such as one can not see in any other place in this vicinity. The dancing pavillion was well patronized during the day, the music being furnished by the Union Pacific band. Around the brow of the hill were erected a number of refreshment stands where thirsty mortals particular. where thirsty mortals partook in copious quantities of liquors according to their taste, the strongest being beer. The people scattered around all over the hill in small groups and lunched and chatted in a most pleasurable manner. The turners gave an exellent exhibition under the direction of Henry Kummerow. Holding up a Funeral Director. Last night about 11 o'clock P. Heafey, of the undertaking firm of Barret & Heafey, on Fifteenth street, was coming in from the southern part of the city, where he had been to attend to a case of death, when, at the corner of Thirteenth and Williams streets, a pair of highway robbers rushed out and seized his horse by the bridle and demanded the funeral director's money and tobacco. The latter, however, retained his presence of mind sufficiently to draw a gun, where upon the scoundrels fled in different directions thus depriving the undertaker of the pleasure of putting them in a condition for a respectable burial.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The busy season being over and things not so rushing any more we have now time to look after the stock that is left, and find that we have accumulated during the season quite a few odds and ends. _ These consist of some single suits, one or two of a kind, and quite a lot of suit pants. Very frequently we sell the coat and vest from a suit and then the pants are left. We have placed them on a counter by themselves, and though the price was formerly very low we have marked them down still further. There are some very fine goods among them. We will sell them only as they are. That is, make no alterations as the price is so extremely low that w cannot afford to have the expense of altering them, but those who will find a fit in this lot will get the goods at about one third their
